

Do you teach in the City of Phoenix? Join us for a free teacher workshop created just for you!

The City of Phoenix & Arizona Project WET
Invite you to the free:

PHXWATERSMART Workshop

Monday, June 5, 2017

Burton Barr Central Library

1221 N Central Ave, Phoenix, AZ 85004

9:00 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

6th – 12th Grade Teachers

Water is the most compelling issue facing Arizona today. Bring this relevant topic into the classroom in ways that will excite students to dive into problem solving and thinking critically.

You will learn where Phoenix gets its water and the incredible process water takes to get to our homes. This workshop will provide hands-on experience with interdisciplinary lessons about water in the earth and human-made systems. We will examine the relationship between the two systems and view them from multiple perspectives.

You will receive:

- Project WET Curriculum and Activity Guide 2.0
- Correlation to the Common Core and Next Generation Science Standards
- 6-hours professional development
- Lunch

To register: <https://arizonawet.arizona.edu/phxwatersmart6-12>

For questions contact Pam Justice at 602-827-8233

